

COYOTES: FRIEND OR FOE?

Join the Chino Hills State Park Interpretive Association
the evening of Saturday, March 29th, 2008 for two events:

A Campfire Program

Time: 8PM

Location: Rolling M Ranch in Chino Hills State Park

Cost: Free to the Public*

No Reservations Needed, seating is limited.

Join the State Park's Interpretive Association to learn about one inhabitant of the Park. Coyotes are increasingly interacting with residents surrounding our open spaces. We invite you to learn about coyote behavior, how to decrease interaction with them, and their importance in preserving the balance of nature. Arrive early with your lawn chairs, blankets, and sing some campfire songs with us!

John Mitchell is a trained biologist who has volunteered as docent with The Nature Conservancy and the Irvine Ranch Conservancy for the last 16 years. An avid outdoorsman and hiker, he spends a lot of his free time exploring the local county wildlands as well as the Sierra Nevada high country with his sons.

An Overnight Camp Out

Saturday Set Up: 3-6 PM through Sunday ~10 AM

Location: The State Park's Group Campground

Cost: $10 per person

Web Reservations Required, space is limited.

Join us for an overnight adventure in the State Park to learn about one of the "housekeepers" of Chino Hills State Park and to enjoy the yipping of coyotes in the distance. Camping reservations are required and can be made through our website. Campers must bring all of their own equipment and supplies. We highly recommend carpooling, arriving early to set up camp, and enjoying the sunset.

The $10 covers your camping fee, apple cider and popcorn before the Campfire program, and coffee/hot chocolate in the morning.
